

Warning -- Not for Human Consumption

Diamond V Mills, Inc (Diamond V[®]) feed grade products are intended ONLY for consumption by animals. Articles or other sources are incorrect to suggest or imply human health benefits from the consumption of Diamond V products. Diamond V products undergo a different manufacture system and have a different composition than any substance intended for humans.

Embria Health Sciences, LLC, the human health division of Diamond V Mills, Inc., produces EpiCor[®] a nutritional ingredient extensively researched to benefit human immune function. For a list of products containing EpiCor, click here.

There is no safe or effective human dose known for any Diamond V product. Diamond V products contain agricultural products known to cause allergic responses for some humans.

No company is authorized to repackage Diamond V products into smaller packages intended for human use. Diamond V markets products that are packaged in 5 kilogram (kg) (approx. 11 pound) bags or larger sizes. Packages of Diamond V products smaller than 11 lbs (5.0 kg) should be considered counterfeit if the container or advertising displays Diamond V, XPC, or related trademarks. Repackaged and counterfeit products may not contain any Diamond V product and may have dangerous contamination. Unauthorized repackaging and counterfeit products may cause severe injury or death due to unsanitary and unlawful contamination, handling, and storage.

Health authorities report that counterfeit or contaminated products have been known to cause death, seizures, brain damage, rashes, permanent damage to the liver and other organs, abdominal pain, vomiting, blindness, irritation, headache, harmful allergic responses, edema of the lower extremities, decreased growth, and fetal and neonatal defects. This is not a complete list as others may be possible. Seek medical attention if you think you are experiencing adverse events related to consuming any animal feed product. Severe injury or death may occur from human consumption of animal feed products.

The purchase, packaging and sale of repackaged Diamond V products for human consumption violate numerous state and federal laws that include criminal and civil penalties.
